With Master's degrees in Economics and Development Studies, I have received extensive training in key development areas, including project planning, design, and management from reputed national institutions; research methodology, applied statistics, and SPSS applications from academic and professional bodies; and gender relations analysis from leading gender advocacy organizations. My expertise extends to result-based management, livelihood, poverty reduction, disaster risk reduction, and climate change adaptation, along with development management and participatory rural appraisal. I am proficient in data collection and analysis tools such as SurveyCTO, ODK, KoBoToolbox, CSPro, SPSS, and STATA. Additionally, training in monitoring and evaluation, knowledge management, and project implementation has further strengthened my comprehensive development skill set.

01. SUMMARY OF EXPERIENCES AND EXPERTISE:

With over 25 years of experience in the development sector, I have worked with national and international organizations such as Gonoshahajjo Sangstha (GSS), Ain o Salish Kendra, DFID (UKAID), NRECA International (USA), and Human Dynamics (Austria), holding roles from field implementation to management. My expertise includes research, program management, monitoring and evaluation (M&E), advocacy, program design, review, and consultancy, including developing training modules and social and behavior change communication (SBCC) materials. I have extensive experience in areas such as human rights, gender equality, child rights, worker's rights, governance, peacebuilding, social cohesion, and countering violent extremism. My sectoral work covers primary education (formal and accelerated), ready-made garment (RMG) and tannery industries, WASH, menstrual hygiene management (MHM), climate change adaptation, disaster risk reduction (DRR), sexual and reproductive health (SRH), disability and social inclusion, poverty alleviation, and livelihoods. I have collaborated with duty bearers, policymakers, political leaders, academics, researchers, journalists, and diverse networks at both local and national levels. My experience includes partnerships with development partners such as BRAC, BNPS, Baptist Aid-BBCF, BLF, BTGWL, BCWS, CDD, CBM Global Inclusion, Diakonia, DIA, MJF, PARI Development Trust, Oxfam GB, FBCCI, FNF, MDF, RDRS, SCI, TIB, UNDP, UNIDO, UNICEF, UNFPA, USDA, US-DRL, USAID, WCB, the World Bank, and Winrock. Additionally, I have worked with academic institutions including Comilla University, the Institute of Developing Economics, and the Nippon Foundation. As a freelance journalist, I focus on quality education for sustainable development, women in development, and human rights.
